

Privacy statement abbGrowers

1. Introduction

AbbGrowers processes personal data because we process and deliver services and products. In doing so, we act within the law. In this privacy statement, we explain what personal data we process and for what purposes.

AbbGrowers, located at Industriestraat 11, Horst, the Netherlands, chamber of commerce number 63265583, e-mail address: info@abbgrowers.com, is the controller for the processing and storage of your personal data. If you have any questions about the contents of the privacy statement, you can contact us.

2. Personal data

AbbGrowers processes different types of personal data for different purposes. The personal data and purposes involved are explained below.

purchase and service agreements

For processing and delivering your order, we need your name, e-mail address, address, payment details and your telephone number. We pass these data to third parties, e.g. to delivery services. We do so only if it is necessary for the implementation of the purchase/service agreement or any other agreement to which you are a party.

Social media

AbbGrowers can be found on several social media. We can use your personal data when you use functions on these websites and/or apps, for example a Facebook like. If you use such a function, we can obtain your personal data via our social media.

We also process data so that we can keep track of general visitor data on the website. In this context, in particular the IP address of your computer, the time of retrieval and data that the browser of a visitor sends, can be registered for statistical analyzes of visiting and clicking behavior on the websites. We try to anonymize these data as much as possible.

Selection procedure

AbbGrowers collects and processes data of applicants, relevant for the selection procedure like training level and working history. These data will be removed no later than four weeks after the completion of the procedure.

Employees

AbbGrowers also processes personal data of employees, in the context of the employment contract and on a statutory basis. For information about processing the personal data of employees, reference is made to the abbGrowers household regulations, Permission form (company information by-mail – sharing personal data).

3. Sharing data

We do not share your personal details with companies, organisations and individuals outside AbbGrowers, except in one of the following circumstances.

Implementation of an agreement

Issuing your personal data to third-party organisations is permitted if this is necessary to fulfil our contractual obligations with respect to you. This involves processing and delivering your order. If it is necessary for the delivery of the products ordered by you or the services requested, we use a third party for things like deliveries, payments, claims or other things to fulfill our contractual obligations. We also pass on your data to the deliverer so that the order can be delivered to you.

With your permission

We can transfer your data to other parties if you grant us permission to do so. That permission applies only if it is clear what you are granting your permission for and what the consequences are.

For external processing

We issue personal details to our partners so that they can process data for us on the basis of our instructions and in accordance with our privacy policy and other appropriate confidentiality and security measures.

For legal reasons

We share personal data if we believe that disclosure of the data is necessary in order to comply with applicable legislation, statutory procedures or requests from government bodies.

Retention period

We do not retain your personal data for longer than necessary, unless we have a statutory obligation to retain your personal data for a longer period.

4. Transfer of personal data outside the EU

AbbGrowers may transfer your personal data from the Netherlands to a foreign country. Countries within the European Economic Area (EEA) have a personal data protection level that is similar to the Netherlands. We may transfer your personal data with due observance of the general requirements of privacy legislation. We can do so, for instance, within our group for the benefit of efficient operations.

We will transfer your personal data outside the EEA only if an appropriate level of protection exists.

5. Your rights

You have the right to: access personal data, to correct or make additions, data deletion, limitation of processing, transfer of digital data and the right of objection. We explain these rights below. We also explain how you can exercise these rights with respect to us.

Right of access

Upon your request, we will inform you in writing whether we are processing your personal data. When making your request, you must identify yourself by means of a copy of your driving licence or identity document.

Corrections

If you have received details about the processing of your personal data, you can request us to correct inaccuracies or to make additions to incomplete information.

Data deletion

You can request us to delete your personal data in our systems.

Limitation of processing

If you have notified us of an inaccuracy or incompleteness in your personal data, you can request us to limit the processing for as long as we are dealing with your request.

Transfer of digital data

If you have provided us with personal data in a structured, customary digital file format and we have processed your data with your permission or in the context of implementing an agreement with you, you will be entitled to request a copy of these data from us. In such cases, you can also request that your data be transferred directly to another service provider.

Objection

You may lodge an objection at all times against the processing of personal data relating to you. If we process your personal data for direct marketing purposes, you may object at any time and we will cease processing immediately.

Exercising rights

If you wish to exercise one or more of the rights summarised above, you can contact us via the following e-mail address info@abbgrowers.com. We will take a decision regarding your request within four weeks, unless we inform you within that period that we need a bit more time.

If your personal data are processed on the basis of your permission, you will be entitled to withdraw that permission. Any withdrawal of your permission will not prejudice previous processing on the basis of that permission.

6. Liability

Despite the care and attention paid to the management of this website, it's possible that the site contains incorrect information. AbbGrowers cannot be held liable for technical or editorial errors that occur in this website, nor for any consequential damage resulting from the use or the temporary unavailability of this website or the links to the website of third parties.

7. Complaints

If you have a complaint about the use of your personal data, we refer you to the complaints procedure at the Dutch Data Protection Authority. This body is authorised to examine your complaint.

8. Any questions?

If you have any questions, send them in an e-mail to: info@abbgrowers.com

This privacy statement is in accordance with the EU General Data Protection Regulation. We reserve the right to update this privacy statement periodically. The latest version will be published on this page.
